

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS RESEARCH: TROUBLES & OPPORTUNITIES

GRADUATE STUDENT AND EARLY CAREER WORKSHOP

THURS 22 OCT 10am - 1pm Online Free Event

The Jean Monnet Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) Network is delighted to announce a new online workshop for graduate students and early career researchers (broadly defined) aimed at making sense of the emerging place of the SDGs in universities.

Researchers interested in making the SDGs more central to their work are particularly encouraged to apply.

The workshop will address the following issues:

- Context: Institutional and Country
- Methods: Measurement and the SDGs
- Content: The Politics of SDG Research

Interested research students/early career researchers should send a 100-word summary of your research and a 100-word bio to emma.shortis@rmit.edu.au by FRI 16 OCT 2020.

Applicants will be notified of the outcome by MON 19 OCT.
